

Dear Neill,

Without consent, contract or injury and presumptions rebutted, the fine has no standing in law; God's law or man's law.

I must be honest, I fail to understand why council pursue such unlawful games when it has been caught out to be unjust.

The reason council fails to answer questions and provide evidence validating it's claim is because there is none.

You have exceeded your power and there are criminal implications for those abusing the office of trustee.

I am sure you have heard the term Ultra Vires.

It would still be honourable for you to initiate the withdrawal using your discretion, however as a further way out, continue to invalidate your position by not responding with the evidence requested and the notice will be withdrawn automatically on the 14th of this month.

With further proceedings, a claim will also be filed for injury and damages, far outweighing the $72 notice.

Let's hope good common sense prevails where our families and children are the winners!
